ing that "China does not welcome British or any other mediation unless it would restore China's sovereignty."

Ready to Mediate

Authoritative sources in London said recently that Great Britain was ready to undertake immediate mediation to end the war and that Lord Halifax, the British foreign secretary, believed that the time for successful mediation was not far off.

The military conference in Hankow was said to have been of great importance, especially in view of Japan's menacing drive on the capital. Japanese armies were about 100 miles from Hankow at the nearest point.

Chinese Retreat

One Japanese column, aided by reinforcements, landed from transports in the Yangtze river, pressed past the Matant forts, the first line of fortifications defending Hankow, and engaged the Chinese a few miles to the west. Chinese communiques admitted that the Japanese were making progress but at a cost of heavy casualties. Chinese "suicide" units were reported to be covering the Chinese retreat westward.

1000 KILLED

IN NIPPON RAID

SWATOW, China, July 1.—(UP)—More than 1,000 persons were estimated to have been wounded or killed today in a Japanese air raid on this South China port.

Nine Japanese planes dropped 71 bombs on the city. Fires started in the residential and business districts. The railway station and the water works were heavily bombed.

The city apparently was without defense. No Chinese anti-aircraft guns replied. They were believed to have been removed to the interior.

British railways lead the world in speed, the average express train rates of the four principal countries being: Britain, 41.3 miles an hour; United States, 41.3 miles; France, 40.8 miles, and Germany, 36.6 miles.

asked the assemblyman why he had not consulted the district attorney's office.

To Search Records

"I don't know," Desmond replied.

Desmond granted Babcock and his investigators permission to search through his office records.

At the conclusion of Desmond's testimony, Grand Juror E. B. Williams commented:

"I think Mr. Desmond has explained everything as far as I am concerned."

Miss Mary Johnston, secretary to Desmond, testified she typed a number of letters from Deuberry, but refused to continue to do work for him after receiving an invitation to "go out with him."

Miss Johnston said she received no pay for the work, and threw away copies of the letters.

Bloody Battle Recalled by Vets of the Potomac and army of Northern Virginia gathered in a common stadium of Gettysburg college and spoke from a common platform a common pledge of fellowship.

Background For Drama

Against this background was presented a drama which told as well as the overtones of Commander-in-Chief Overton H. Mennet of the Grand Army of the Republic and Commander-in-Chief John M. Claypool of the United Confederate Veterans of the passing years since contending armies of north and south blundered into battle here.

For war has changed as well as men with the passing of the years, and signaling the change was the first display of U. S. Army forces encamped today on the Gettysburg battle field itself.

Ban Violence In L. A. Picket Line

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—(UP)—Use of violence in picketing the American Can company was prohibited today in a temporary restraining order issued against the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, the C.I.O., John L. Lewis and Harry Bridges.

Judge Emmet Wilson limited the pickets to one in every 25 feet and two to each plant entrance. He ordered the defendants to appear July 8 and show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be issued.

The company's petition for the restraining order alleged members of the C.I.O. committed acts of violence against the can company's customers and employees since approximately 450 mill workers walked out last week, demanding a closed shop.

heretofore defied law, and condoned and covered up illegal and immoral practices of various public officials." Possibly with his own recent prosecution on grand jury charges in mind, West declared that the "phantom government" even brought "malicious prosecution" against those who insisted the law be complied with. "Snow, he went on, was being thrown out of office because he refused to be a puppet to those seeking to dominate county government."

Adds Protest

Supervisor Riley added his own protest. There was no claim of inefficiency against Snow, said Riley, though Chairman Smith later corrected that claim with his own brief statement. Riley said Snow had taken over the welfare department under difficult conditions, and had added hundreds of persons to the county relief rolls.

Where there were only 753 on the rolls, with 500 applications waiting, when Snow took charge, there are now 2546 on the rolls, an only 160 applications pending, said Riley.

The old conditions should never have been tolerated, said Riley, thus harking back to his recent attack upon former Welfare Director Byron Curry. Removal of Snow, said Riley, was "a slap in the face of good government." He said, however, that he could not agree with all that West had said. His attitude, Riley explained, also should not be construed as condemnation of Mrs. Spangler and Mrs. Lyons. He would have approved retention of Mrs. Spangler, he said. He only voted to retain Snow as a vote in support of the principal of backing up a department head, he said.

West Loses

West's motion to table Finley's ouster motion was voted down, 3 to 2, West and Riley supporting it. Then a roll call was taken on Finley's motion, with the same line-up.

Finley next moved to reinstate Mrs. Spangler, but West, Smith and Mitchell expressed the view that the motion was out of order, since there was no head of the department. Mitchell moved to appoint Edwards as acting director, and after exchanging shots with the angry West, succeeded in carrying his motion, though Finley voted with West. Riley moved adjournment, and this was carried.

away his glove and ball and went in to supper.

Ate Last Supper

As he ate, the three were watching from windows and doors, every bite he took. Miss Clark, the confession said, having drawn the longer straw, had a pistol, loaded and cocked. The child finished his supper, walked out to the porch. A shot rang out and he fell dead.

Each denied the actual shooting. Miss Clark said the father fired the gun.

Suspect Murderer

Nelson, a backwoodsman, a native of Douglas, Ga., came here with Miss Clark and his family to set up a roadside. His wife died two years ago and he was charged with murdering her. During the trial, it was testified that he had beaten her two days before her death. He was sentenced to 20 years for manslaughter, but has been free on bail under appeal.

Nelson had told police earlier that his son accidentally shot himself through the chest. He has been held, but the two girls were implicated only recently.

Rebels Plan Huge Air Force

ZARAGOZA, Spain, July 1.—(UP)

The Spanish Nationalists plan a peace time air force of 2,000 planes if they win the civil war it was disclosed today.

The disclosure was made by Gen. Alfredo Kindelan, chief of the Nationalist air force, in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

"Generalissimo Francisco Franco considers that Spain, due to her geographical position, needs a big air force," he said.

"I have submitted plans to budget for a strength of 2,000 planes as a peace time force. That is proof that after the war Spain will once more assume her rightful place among the nations."

plain the letter. And they said he didn't have an enemy, and described him as a family man who spent his spare time with his wife and two children. He had worked behind the cameras in various studios for 22 years.

Dead Several Hours

Gray had been dead for hours when Traffic Officer Flaherty shook his shoulder, thinking he was asleep. The body was stiff and cold. Hundreds of people had passed the car, parked in front of the postoffice on busy Wilcox avenue, but none paid more than passing attention to the form slumped over the steering wheel until James H. Fisher, a newspaper employee, summoned Flaherty from his station at the intersection.

Whether Gray had just received the letter from Newcastle and whether it had a bearing on his death had not been determined by Police Captain J. J. Jones. The officer believed Gray had been slain, but he said there was a possibility that a friend might have been driving Gray to a hospital, after an accidental shooting, and becoming panicky, had parked the car and fled. Jones said, however, that in this case it was not likely that Gray's body would have been behind the steering wheel.

In memory of their owners who died doing their duty, 30 brass helmets are preserved at the headquarters of the London Fire Brigade.

47 To Take Tests For Police Posts

Forty-seven applications have been filed for the first civil service examination in Santa Ana police and fire departments, according to Phil Brown, secretary of the Civil Service Commission.

Included among the applications are 25 for police jobs, 11 for the fire department and five for the position as assistant clerk to the police department. On Tuesday the commissioners will meet to check applications to determine those who will qualify for physical and mental examinations to be held at the Santa Ana high school July 14. The examinations will require a full day to be completed, Brown said.

CLYDE DILLINGER REPORTED BETTER

Clyde Dillinger, 30-year-old gun-shot victim, was reported "slightly improved" today at county hospital, although in "critical" condition.

Dillinger was shot through the abdomen by a 30-30 caliber rifle, assertedly in the hands of Charles Calhoun, 28, his step-son, of Midway City.

Calhoun, who awaits preliminary hearing July 6 in Huntington Beach justice court, on a charge of assault with deadly weapon with intent to murder, assertedly confessed to Sheriff Logan Jackson he shot Dillinger who, with Mrs. Dillinger, was visiting him, when he got a sudden urge to do so.

Both, he said, had been convicts at Oklahoma state penitentiary. Both assertedly disliked one another and when Dillinger was released before Calhoun, he left word he would "get even" by making love to all of Calhoun's women folk. Calhoun alleged. When Calhoun was released, he said he found Dillinger had made good his threat and had mistreated Calhoun's wife, sister and mother. He found Dillinger married to the 49-year-old mother.

WARREN MARR EN ROUTE HERE

Warren Marr, considered the nation's No. 1 confidence man, is en route to Santa Ana today in custody of Chief Criminal Deputy Merle Dean of the sheriff's office, a telegram from Dean to Sheriff Logan Jackson at noon today, stated.

Marr was brought here in 1935 from Detroit to face eight charges, including grand theft and violation of the corporate securities act, after Deputy Russell Lutes was forced to outwit Marr's lawyers by "smuggling" Marr out of Michigan.

Obtaining a court order here, stating he wanted to go to Los Angeles to raise funds for his defense, Marr escaped from Deputy Sheriff Frank Dawson by crawling through a bathroom window at a South Pasadena home.

Captured in Indiana two years later, Marr was sent to the Indiana state prison for confidence game activities in that state. From the prison, a forged letter was smuggled and sent to Santa Ana inside of another letter. The forged letter, purportedly from Sheriff Jackson, directed Indiana authorities to release Marr when he completed his term. "Orange county authorities no longer want him," the forged letter stated. The forgery was discovered shortly before the time for Marr's release.

Marr's crime record, reading like a detective novel, shows he generally got elderly persons to trade off valuable stocks for stocks in Marr's hastily organized insurance or other similar business. He has been arrested in numerous parts of California as well as in other states but his cleverness often has given him freedom.

Officer Dean said they would leave Chicago tonight and arrive at Pomonca Monday morning. The sheriff will meet them there.

Resident Here 15 Years Visitor At Beach First Time

Although she has lived at 1114 West Walnut street in Santa Ana for the last 15 years, Mrs. Jessie Reed today concluded her first visit to any Orange county beach.

Mrs. Reed returned yesterday after a two-weeks' visit with other friends from Santa Ana at Balboa.

LIONS INSTALL AT EVENING MEETING

Santa Ana Lions and their wives were in festive mood last night for their dinner and dance at Santa Ana Country Club, where party features were second only in interest to the "formal" installation rites conducted by past presidents of the organization. Don Jerome succeeded Frank Harwood to the presidency.

One hundred and 25 members and their wives assembled at the banquet tables decorated with yellow rose buds and purple larkspur—the club colors—as Harry Harlow opened the formalities of the installation.

As each of the past presidents were introduced they professed inability to properly conduct the installation and humorously expressed solicitude for the incoming officers.

The "privilege" of installing the officers was passed from one past president to the other until Franklin West, declaring that "the nine old men" were incompetent, took charge of the affair. The past president who took part in the affair were: Harry Hanson, Walter Spicer, Lyle Anderson, Homer Chaney, Ray Adkinson, Carson Smith, C. W. Harrison and Jerry Hayes.

In a more serious vein, Lew Blodgett inducted the following men into membership: J. A. Henle, Robert Murphy, and Roy Ferguson. Jerry Hayes presented the past president pin and certificate to Harwood. Keys were presented to Harry Hanson, Hubert Gohres, and Harold Mathews for their activity in securing new members, by E. M. Sundquist.

Past president's wives who received gifts were: Mrs. Frank Harwood, Mrs. Ray Adkinson, Mrs. Lyle Anderson, and Mrs. Homer Chaney.

The Elks double quartet furnished a program of music for the occasion. Dancing to Clarence Williams orchestra and cards concluded the entertainment.

CLEAN RECORD ON 4TH SOUGHT

"Death Takes a Holiday Over July 4th."

Director Ray Ingels of the Department of Motor Vehicles today proposed the addition of the three words, "Over July 4th," as Department officials launched a campaign to save 56 lives over next week end.

The number—56—represents the California traffic fatalities reported over the July 4th holiday last year.

Director Inge's said: "We hope to mobilize public opinion to the point that the state will have a clear record over July 4th. Every agency of government is participating and a special safety proclamation has been issued by Gov. Frank P. Merriam. But the cooperation of the individual motorist is essential for the man behind the wheel is the man who will be behind our success if we attain our goal."

Chief E. Raymond Cato of the California Highway Patrol said that every available officer would be on duty over the holiday to cooperate with the motoring public in the reduction of death and injuries.

Appoint Skirvin Distributor For U. S. Tires Here

C. J. Skirvin has been appointed as distributor for the U. S. Tire Dealers Mutual corporation, officials of the company announced today. Skirvin will feature the sale of United States tires.

Ten years in Santa Ana as a dealer in tires and vulcanizing, Skirvin today stated that "the change in tires has been prompted by the desire to benefit the customer."

"In order that the 100 per cent record may be preserved and the buying public may benefit by the new line of fresh stock we have included in the line the Royal Master tire with the centipede grip," Skirvin said.

Included in the new line of truck tires is a new deskkidd tread with a carcass made of rayon cord. The new type of tire is designed to resist heat and solve the problem of long hauls at high speeds with heavy loads. Included among the articles carried at the Skirvin service station at First and Sycamore streets is a complete line of "Tough Tested Tires" which he manufactures at his recapping plant. A modern lubrication department is included in the services at the Skirvin service station.

RELIEF MAP OF WEST STARTED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—First castings have been completed on the giant $2,000,000 relief map of the 11 western states, being constructed here for the 1939 Golden Gate International exposition.

After many weeks of research which entailed the assembling of data from the various states, compiling of the most intricate and detailed maps, plans, and blueprints, H. A. Sedelmeyer, director of the project, revealed today that the actual casting had begun.

Covering 17,324 square feet the huge relief map will show the amazing industrial development which has taken place in the west during the past few years, giving 25 per cent of the power generating capacity of the nation to the 11 western states.

Measuring 142 feet by 122 feet, the map will be set up in the hall of the western states on Treasure Island. It will be so constructed that each individual state will have runway completely encircling it, so that visitors will be able to walk between and around the various states.

By far the largest relief map ever constructed, the panorama unfolded will cover a million square miles of territory, including Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming. Scale will be one inch to the mile.

Nearly a hundred people now are employed on the project and this number will increase to two hundred or more within the next few months. The big map is to be completed and in place in the hall of the western states by February 15, 1939, three days before the opening of the exposition.

Sponsored by the California state commission of the exposition, the map is a WPA project. When the World's Fair of the West closes on December 2, 1939, the individual sections will be turned over to the various states which they represent, according to Keith Southard, chief of the division of state participation for the fair.

"Individually, these huge relief maps will undoubtedly be preserved as permanent displays in the various state capitals," Southard said. "They will be lasting and extremely valuable souvenirs of our great exposition."

"Jaw's harp" has nothing to do with the race; the name is a corruption of "jaw's harp."

CORNER THIRD AND SYCAMORE — SANTA ANA

LIFE PASS FOR VIC WALKER

They had hard-bitten old Vic Walker reaching for his hip pocket yesterday, not for a gun but a handkerchief.

Out of a clear sky, Director D. K. Hammond of Santa Ana Junior college and "some of the boys" dropped into Walkers' sporting goods establishment on West Fourth street which Vic is closing in a few weeks, meaning his surcease from business after 26 years in the same block.

Hammond carried a small package, and a letter.

"You open this packet and I'll read the letter because I know YOU never will," chuckled Hammond.

Thereupon, Director Hammond read aloud to his assembled flock these words:

"It is a real pleasure to students and faculty of Santa Ana Junior college to present to you this token of appreciation of your long service to the college and the community—a life pass to all our games. For the unique make-up of this pass several of your downtown friends and associates are responsible.

"For more than a quarter of a century you have been teaching our young people the value of good clean sport. They have come to know you as their friend whose advice it paid to follow. For years we have heard your opinions quoted and we, too, have come to believe that what Vic says about anything relating to sports is pretty sure to be right.

"Helping your people to find their niche is the greatest service one can render them. Many times when efforts of parents and teachers have failed, you, through patient expenditure of time and energy, have guided young athletes into institutions suited to their needs. Athletics is naturally the interest of the majority of adolescent boys. If a boy is properly placed so that he may develop to the fullest whatever ability he may have, it generally follows that he develops an enthusiasm which carries over into his studies and causes him to take all his work more seriously. Athletics has made men of many boys.

"These of us who are dealing with boys know that many have been put on the right track through your friendly guidance and insight. We want you to know that we appreciate the unselfish service you have rendered our boys these many years, and we are sure it will not cease when you retire from business.

With kindest regards and best wishes.

"Sincerely yours,

"D. K. HAMMOND."

This letter had the man Walker groggy and what was in the package finished the job. Snug in a little black leather case was a beautiful silver plaque suitably engraved and bearing on its side the college's life-pass acknowledgment and on the other the names of the donors.

I don't suppose Vic Walker has shed a tear since he was a ten-year-old scawling nosing around the hot spots of our town. But when Hammond was through with him Vic's eyes were glistening and he was groping for words. They just about had him speechless, and I don't think he could have made a very good fight-lick either for the Dons or "old S. C." right then.

Walker has leased his building to Murray's Shoe Stores for five years. About $5000 will be spent in remodeling the store for the shoe business. Improvements will include a new front. The lease goes into effect Sept. 1.

Three Tournaments At Country Club During Week-End

Tonight's Games
Huntington Beach at Orange, Santa Ana at Brea, Whittier at Anaheim, Irvine at San Bernardino.

Without the services of First Baseman Bob Mott, one of their best hitters, the Stars of Santa Ana enter the den of Brea's Red Lions tonight.

Mott's leg was painfully burned yesterday when a blow-torch he was pumping exploded and ignited his clothing. He'll be out of the club's lineup at least a week.

Manager "Doc" Smith must reorganize much of his lineup because of Mott's injury. Fred Wiemer moves in from center field to handle first base and "Briss" Richardson will start in center.

Smith's batting order: Denney, Jr.; Wiemer, 1b; Young, 3b; J. Koral, 2b; E. Koral, c; Jacobsmeyer, p; Lacy, rf; Richardson, cf, and Smith, ss.

Even at full strength, the Stars would be no cinch to win at Brea. Santa Ana holds two decisions over the Lions but both were decided by one-run margins. Manager Virg Kiger has not announced Brea's mound nominee. It is Lynn Stewart's turn but Rudy Montgomery may get the call.

Huntington Beach, the league leader, plays at Orange. The Cubs slipped over a surprise win on the Oilers last time but Huntington Beach is favored tonight. Orange hasn't won a game at home this season and probably won't break its hoodoo against a club as strong as the Oilers.

As unpredictable as a March wind are the Orange County Night Ball leagues. . . . and last night was no exception. San Juan Capistrano came up with a 1-0 victory over Placentia. Yorba Linda broke a 3-2 tie in the eighth inning, winning a 6-3 victory over the tail-end Costa Mesa nine. Laguna Beach's climbing Artists stopped the Irvine Cubs, 5-1.

Victory over Costa Mesa sent Yorba Linda into a tie for league leadership with the idle Tustin team, each with seven victories against three losses. Pete Miguelena tallied the only run on a passed ball. The scores:

This Happened Back In '35

This old picture out of the files is newsworthy for two reasons. It shows the finish of the celebrated match at Wimbledon in 1935 between the two latter California tennis rivals—Helen Wills Moody, foreground, and Helen Jacobs—when Mrs. Moody came up from 2-5 and 15-40 in the third set to conquer Miss Jacobs. And it is one of the few photos ever taken of Mrs. Moody losing her "poker-face" on a tennis court. The two Helens meet in Wimbledon's finals again tomorrow. The whole tennis world wonders about the result.

Feud Of Two Helens Like Hatfield, McCoy

BY HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, whose feud could be no more intense had one been born a Hatfield and the other a McCoy, again go a-huntin' for one another on Wimbledon's center court tomorrow.

They've been gunnin' one another for night on a tennis court for a decade, now, and no vengeance-fueled Kentucky ever handled his squirrel gun more vindictively than the two California girls do their racket. There's no love lost between the two Helens—never has been since their rivalry started when they were little girls in Berkeley. The ill feeling between them was born in high school, nurtured in college, and blossomed into full bloom on the tennis courts of the world.

Their meeting for the highest of all tennis prizes tomorrow reads like a page from the notebook of the maddest Hollywood scenario. Two weeks ago both of the Helens apparently were headed toward the wings, their days under the international spotlight at an end. Mrs. Moody came to the start of Wimbledon bearing scars of defeat at the hands of Hilda Sperling and Mary Hardwick, players she could have beaten without adjusting her eye-shade when she was young.

Chances of Miss Jacobs reaching the final were more remote. Plagued by ill-health, she collapsed in the dressing room before her first round match and was forced to request a postponement for the first time in her career. But both rose above adversity and came through, and with their arrival in the final round memories of their last meeting came flooding back. The spikes of tennis mightiest have dug into the sod at Wimbledon but in London the youngest ball boys and the oldest critic will tell you that no pair of antagonists ever produced a match to equal the one between the Helens in 1935.

It was one of the few genuine "grudge" tennis matches ever played. Miss Jacobs was playing to prove to the world that her victory over Mrs. Moody in the final round at Forest Hills in 1933 was deserved. Mrs. Moody was equally determined to show that the only way her

PROPOSED BOUT WITH BAER IN SEPTEMBER OFF

CHICAGO—(UP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will not meet Max Baer in September and will do no more fighting this year with the exception of a few possible exhibitions, his co-manager, Julian Black, said today.

"Joe has been working hard and needs a rest," Black said. "He has defended his title four times since he won it from Braddock a year ago."

Black said he had talked to Mike Jacobs, New York promoter who has an option on the Bomber's services, and that Jacobs had agreed Louis needs a rest.

Baer will remain as No. 1 challenger, Black said, unless he is defeated before 1939. He added that in the event Baer is beaten, Gunnar Barlund of Finland probably would be the next man in line for a crack at the title. Barlund scored a knockout over Baer's brother, "Buddy," last March.

PIRATES PASS REDS IN NATIONAL LOOP

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—In case you've overlooked the Pittsburgh Pirates, it's high time to give them your attention. Under the patient leadership of docile "Pie" Traynor the Pirates have climbed steadily the past month and today moved into second place in the National league standings.

On the morning of June 1 the Pirates were in fifth place with a percentage of .456. It looked like record of 17 won and 18 lost for a another year of frustration and disappointment. But Traynor finally got them straightened away and June proved a highly successful month.

Another month like June and you can tab the Pirates as real pennant contenders for the first time in years. Yesterday Pittsburgh triumphed over Cincinnati, 3-1, to dislodge the Reds from second place.

'Popeye' Rides Storm To Pin Montgomery

That good old sailor, Pat (Popeye) O'Brien, weathered typhoons and hurricanes created by the terrible Bob Montgomery last night to come out a shining example of what spinach, fortitude and quick-thinking will do for a good old salt when things look their blackest.

O'Brien sent a small batch of Orange County Athletic club wrestling fans on their way rejoicing by pinning Montgomery for the third time in a row.

Montgomery came into the ring determined to take the sailor apart but Popeye had other ideas. Bob pulled hair, smacked with his fist, strangled and used "Popeye's" manly figure for a mop but the sailor managed to take all the big boy could dish out, finally getting tired of the rough stuff and polishing off Montgomery with a series of rope slingshots followed by a body press, to take the first fall in 18:23.

The second-half schedule will get under way the night of July 5, with the Elks meeting Montgomery Ward at 7:30 and the two second place teams, Eltiste and Alliance Mutual, clashing at 8:30.

Hollywood Park today prepared for a big week-end with three stakes down for decision, and there was fervent hope among the master-minds who operate this course that the only eggs laid in the future will be done by the geese in the infield. The Lawrin-Dauber "flopper" was sliding into the limbo of bad dreams today, and one thing certain—there will be no "walkovers" in the engagements listed Saturday and Monday.

WIN WITH GWYNNE

Win rhymed with Gwynne yesterday when Tim Register's crack handicapper picked seven straight winners at Inglewood.

Gwynne missed the first race but had the first horse in the next seven, finishing the day with an unbroken string. This set a handicapping record for the meeting and also put Gwynne in a tie with Oscar Otis for first place.

slips up at a racetrack, has certainly taken an awful drubbing on the so-called turf "gigantics" this year. The War Admiral-Seabiscuit fiasco at Belmont Park touched off the opening fireworks. Then Samuel D. Riddle, owner of Man o' War, exploded a cannon cracker when he scratched his horse out of the Suburban. This was followed by two simultaneous explosions Wednesday—one on the New England front when Seabiscuit was withdrawn right before post time, and then the scratching of Dauber here.

The racing script here for the rest of the meeting calls for a parade of winning favorites and two chickens in every "chalk" player's pot.

In the meantime, the stream-lined "tote" in the infield will play a million and a quarter dollar melody over Saturday and Monday—a sweet tune with no sour notes—and this will pull the handle over the $500,000 mark for the daily average.

HERE AND THERE: Dauber, which developed a slight bow in his left front tendon, will be fired and rested up for three or four months after he is taken East. . . . Trainer Dick Handlen has not yet set the shipping date for the Foxcatcher horses. . . . Jockey Maurice Peters will accompany the stable. . . . Jockey Eddie Aracero left yesterday for New York, and will return here to ride Lawrin in the Hollywood Gold Cup. . . . Albert Johnson, the former stable immortal, deserves a few rousing cheers for the manner in which he has handled the Bing Crosby horses.

BIG YEAR FOR AVOCADOS SEEN

To materially increase the popularity of avocados and to successfully market the larger 1938-39 crop, Calavo Growers of California have tentatively approved of increased newspaper and radio advertising for the new season. Advertising will be used in both the leading eastern and western markets next season, it is announced by the growers' exchange.

Next season's crop, now believed to be the industry's largest, will make possible the smallest per-box grower-investment on record. However, it will provide, from these smaller unit investments, the most extensive newspaper-radio advertising yet presented to popularize Calavo-avocados.

Exceptional Crop Seen

Although the size of the Fuerte crop varies between trees and orchards considerably, it ranges from good to heavy. Summer varieties are reported as setting unusually heavily. This above-average "set," plus the increased bearing surfaces of trees and the increased number of trees coming into bearing, is expected to result in a record 1938-39 crop of avocados throughout Southern California.

A total of approximately 93 per cent, or $14,000 flats of fruit, of the current season's crop had been harvested by July 1. Income earned this season by marketing certain specialty fruits, such as dates, limes, dried fruit and mangoes, is 31 per cent greater than that of a year ago, it is also announced.

Best Date Season

The first California date season in which Calvo has acted as national marketing agent is now drawing to a close, reports also state, with date growers netting their best returns of the past several years, grade for grade.

LAKE 55 MILES LONG IS BEING FORMED BACK OF PARKER DAM

Swirling back into its age-old channel, only to find the way blocked by Parker Dam, the Colorado river is being backed up today to begin the formation of a new lake 55 miles long from which the 13 Metropolitan Water District cities will draw a billion gallons of water daily through the 392-mile aqueduct.

F. E. Weymouth, general manager of the Metropolitan Water District, was notified yesterday that at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon work was started on the plugging of the second of the two diversion tunnels which have carried the Colorado river around the Parker Dam site during the construction of the dam.

One of the two diversion tunnels already has been plugged and the river is slowly piling up behind the great structure, which is a part of the Metropolitan Aqueduct system. H. P. Bunker, construction engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation at Parker Dam, stated that he expected the river water to start flowing over the crest of the dam sometime today.

Designed to regulate the flow of the Colorado River, as well as to divert part of it into the Metropolitan Aqueduct, Parker Dam will control the river by five giant steel spillway gates, each of which is 50 feet high and 50 feet wide and weighs 200 tons. The river will flow through these gates and over the crest of the dam in a huge man-made waterfall.

Considered as one of the most spectacular jobs in the history of dam construction, Parker Dam is described by engineers as "the deepest dam in the world." This is because it was necessary to excavate a great hole in Parker canyon to a depth of 237 feet below the original bed of the river in order to reach bedrock.

This was the deepest excavation that has ever been made in a river bed, and required the removal of more than a million and a half cubic yards of earth and rock. The dam now rises to a height of 380 feet above its base, but two-thirds of its height will be eternally buried beneath the surface of the Colorado River.

Frank Crowe, who was general superintendent of construction at Boulder Dam, has acted in the same capacity during the building of Parker Dam, the first work on which was started in 1934. The actual construction of the structure itself has required a little less than a year, the first concrete having been placed on July 29, 1937.

Homer G. Ames, veteran member of the Orange county bench, today announced officially that he would be a candidate to succeed himself as judge, department No. 1. Ames' legal background includes 35 years as attorney and judge. Twice he has been appointed as justice pro tem of the court of appeals. He has presided over the juvenile court throughout most of his career on the bench. He first rose to the bench by appointment of Gov. Friend Richardson in 1926 and since has been elected and re-elected to the office.

Judge Ames has been a resident of Orange county for half a century. His home is in Anaheim.

TRACK COACHES LAST

The biggest consolation about coaching track is the alumni don't howl for the mentors' scalps as they do in football. Figures show that cinder coaches have the greatest longevity of any collegiate sport. Tom Keane is nearing his 49th year at Syracuse; Steve Farrell had the job at Michigan until he died, which gave him more than a 25-year span; Dean Cromwell is in the three-decade class at U. S. C., having started with the Trojans in 1909, while Walter Christy coached California for 30 years.

GARDEN AND HOME

Through the Garden Gate

With MARAH ADAMS

Two interests climax all others in the way of hobbies or avocations at the present moment—gardening and photography. The first is the means of bringing additional beauty into the world and the latter is a means of recording it.

Current magazines on the newsstands reveal a preponderance of magazines relating to gardening and photography, high in standards of typography and art. Many persons must be interested in these two subjects to make the publication of these magazines pay.

Because Mr. and Mrs. America, and many of the little Americas, are particularly interested in gardening many businesses flourish that would not otherwise. More seeds are grown and gathered, more tiny plants are raised and sold, nurseries expand, gardeners find extra hours of work, more garden implements are made, fertilizer factories have a larger output. On and on the threads run back—to mines, to shipping, to chemicals—

There is the case of W. H. Price of Westminster, who has established himself as the largest peat dealer in California because everybody is keen about making two blades grow where but one grew before. Price supplies nurseries with peat principally for bedding plants.

After experimenting with peat in a nursery operated by Mrs. Price, the Westminster man leased a 10-acre peat bed south of Wintersburg. A close study of government bulletins preceded the business venture. This particular peat bed is filled with what is called "wet peat." As soon as the peat is taken out with a great steam shovel, the hole fills with water and gradually a lake is being formed where the bed is located.

Peat is formed from decayed vegetable matter, mostly reeds, rushes, sedges and mosses. After it is taken from the bog, Price leaves the peat exposed to the air until it reaches a certain stage when it is cut or ground up. There are 11,200 square miles of peat bog in the United States, the greater number of bogs in Orange county being near Smeltzer, Greenville and Wintersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross of Balboa are enthusiastic gardeners having a number of the most extensive and beautiful lath houses and conservatories in Southern California. An 100-year old orchid plant in the orchid house bears two beautiful orchids, so alive in appearance that they seem poised for flight like two great fuchsia-colored butterflies. The gloriole plants nearby are scarcely less lovely than the more aristocratic orchids.

Begonias, both tuberous and fibrous, tree ferns—roof high, trailing tropical vines and all sorts of rare plants give the feeling that at any moment a blue and red macaw may rush by with a flap of strong wings—that any number of brilliant plumaged birds may flash across the green spaces. Traveling around over the world, Mr. and Mrs. Ross have had opportunity to study tropical growths in many places.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Ross laid out a spacious garden at Costa Mesa which is artistically landscaped, with pools and rustic bridges. Lobelia in three distinct shades of blue is making an attractive showing there, all coming up from seed of one color of blue sown last year.

Not long ago, according to Mr. Ross, a most tragic happening took place at the garden. Three big bull frogs had established their home in one of the pools and had begun to be quite friendly with the gardener and the owner. In spite of the very secluded spot the three bull frogs had chosen in which to do their evening chanting, they were destined to end their careers as fried frogs legs at some exclusive eating place.

One night Costa Mesa police noticed a car parked near the Ross garden, found that two men were appropriating the hose used in watering and believe it or not, the back of the car was filled with bull frogs they had gathered from a nearby frog farm. With the commercial cargo of jumping amphibians, alas, were the three friendly frogs from the Ross garden who had been gathered up by the intruders.

PEST CONTROL METHODS GIVEN

Pest control is of interest to all gardeners. M. J. Wolfe, assistant farm advisor of Orange county has compiled a list of controls for common garden pests. Wolfe says that fortunately most flowering plants are comparatively free from pests. Occasionally some insect or plant parasite migrates to the garden and if not controlled at once a serious infestation may follow.

Insect pests are of two general types (1) leaf chewers or biting insects and (2) sucking insects. Insects that chew are generally killed by eating poison such as calcium arsenate which may be dusted or sprayed on the plant. For the "sucking" insects a contact poison must be used such as the nicotine, pyrethrum or derris dusts or the miscible oils. For these insects it is important that the spray or dust get directly on the body of the insect for proper control.

Cucumber beetle—(12 spotted or striped and looks like a lady bug.) Adults eat tender plants and blossoms. Larvae eat roots and tubers. Control with calcium arsenate or nicotine sulphate solution.

Squash bug—A gray brown bug marked with orange. Commonly attacks melon and squash vines. Control with nicotine spray, or with other contact poison.

Caterpillars—Calcium arsenate spray or dust.

Cutworms—No inexpensive control. Best to change location in garden. Paper wrapped around the plant at the ground may be effective. Poisoned baits may be used.

Slugs—Apply a spray made by dissolving 1/4 to 1/2 lb. of alum in 1 gallon of water.

Snails—Poison with calcium arsenate mixed with bran and water in the following proportions: 1 pound calcium arsenate to 25 pounds wheat bran mixed with enough water to make crumbly. Molasses two quarts.

Phids—Often called plant lice. Fat bodies and thin legs. Nicotine spray or dust of oil emulsion.

Mealy bugs—Waxy white, size of grain of wheat. Combination oil—Nicotine spray. Controlled also by parasite.

Thrips—Straw colored, pin-like insects. Lurk in flowers. Nicotine spray or sulphur.

Red spider—Red to yellow in color and very small. Make leaves turn yellow. Dust with sulphur in morning while dew is on.

Scale insects—For the control of scale insects spray with oil emulsion one to two per cent solution for foliage, five per cent for deciduous or dormant plants and trees.

Mildews—Dusting with sulphur during its early appearance will help control the more common mildews. Care must be taken not to burn tender foliage. Rose mildew is very effectively controlled by a summer oil such as Nursery Volk plus an ammoniated copper compound (Bordeo) at the rate of six to eight ounces Volk and five to six ounces Bordeo for each eight gallons of spray.

post, and who is spending the summer in Santa Ana with her mother, Mrs. Harry Garstang, comes through the Garden Gate with a number of verses which she calls "Garden Conceits." The first one is as follows:

MARGOLD
My neighbor's yard, across the way,
Has larkspur set in trim array,
Tall supercilious hollyhocks
And rows of nouveau-smobish phlox.

My neighbor's flowers stare through the fence
In cool and practical insolence,
Eyeing in stiff civility
My tangled marigolds and me.

Orange County Gardening

By Mrs. H. Cardoza Sloan, Corona Del Mar

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

The last day of June. A very cloudy, cool June it has been, but it doth not yet appear what the summer will bring us in the way of weather. If it is warm, do not spare the water in your garden. July gardening consists largely in copious watering, plus careful trimming and tidying up, keeping dead flowers picked, carefully staking such plants as need supports. Hoses the shrubs and trees occasionally to wash off dust and freshen the foliage.

If you have bare spaces in the garden where bulbs or early annuals bloomed, there is still time to set in various little plants you can buy at the nurseries, asters, zinnias, ageratum, petunias, phlox, drummondii, marigolds, and so on.

If you have azaleas, or have advanced to rhododendrons, be generous with water during the summer. A feeding of cottonseed meal is good at this time, and a mulch of peat moss will keep the roots cool during the warm weather.

The same goes for camellias. If you have potted azaleas, do not summer them in too dense shade. The flower buds will be forming and there will be more of them if the plants receive plenty of light during this period. I hardly need to add that I don't mean full sunlight, but put them where they will receive filtered sunlight, or at least good light.

If you grow dahlias and chrysanthemums they will naturally be in the foreground of garden activities. Chrysanthemums should be cut back, or pinched back, to insure bushy plants. Some people cut quite heavily, others merely pinch. If you are striving for large blooms, keep only 4 or 5 shoots. The plants should be strongly staked, side growth taken off, and only one bud to a stem allowed to develop. Feed well; nothing better than cow manure, though a good commercial plant food may be used judiciously. Keep well watered.

The small flowered hardy chrysanthemums, of course, do not require the routine of pinching and disbudding, but if the clump seems too heavy, it is well to thin out some of the stalks.

Dahlias, too, should be thinned to 3 or 4 shoots and pinched back to about a foot high, and disbudded for large blooms. Keep well watered and fertilized.

If you are a "fan" for dahlias and chrysanthemums you will learn all the tricks of growing them and will consider the time and effort well spent. Personally, all I know about these methods of growing is "what I read in the papers," or learn from gardening friends.

In my own garden I have grown mostly pompoms and smaller flowered dahlias, and the hardy chrysanthemums.

With watering, fertilizing, mulching, I had great joy from my flowers, though they would never rate a prize at the flower shows beside the immense blooms we see there. I never worked up courage to pull off a shoot, but now and then I did pinch off a bud on the larger flowered dahlias.

So don't be confused with all the directions for growing prize dahlias and chrysanthemums. Get some of the tubers or plants for your own garden and grow them more or less naturally for a year. Maybe by the second year you'll be pinching and disbudding with the best of them.

Two fine bulbs for autumn flowering are available at this season of the year. They are of the type which grows and matures its leaves during the winter, sheds the leaves in June, and flowers in August or a little later, the leaves coming after the flower.

They may be grown in our Southern California gardens and also make excellent pot plants. They may remain in the same pot for three or four years, resting dry during the summer months.

In late summer, scrape off an inch or so of top soil, replace with fresh soil, and give a good soaking. As the roots of these plants resent disturbance, quite often they do not bloom the first season after moving, but the flower is beautiful and interesting and

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 1.—Idol Chatter. Nothing more disillusioning than a glamour girl with a coating of cold cream. Hollywood smiles; as trusting as the man who offered Joe E. Brown a bite of his apple. Warner Baxter's voice is well modulated, but it has a piercing quality that makes it dominate every conversation. The long and the short of it: James Ellison and Mrs. James Ellison. Wonder why every screen comic has such an incurable yen to play tragedy?

Whenever I hear anyone mention a well-turned ankle, I always think of Louise Campbell. If there is a mechanical marble game in the neighborhood, Anita Louise will probably be playing it. Height of something or other; the superabundance of god-fathers bestowed on Margaret Sullivan's baby daughter—four of 'em to be exact. Nothing but the best for a Fairbanks—young Doug's stand-in is a certified baron. Hollywood menace No. 1: Tito Guizar—one look at those curls and the most cynical ladies swoon away.

I'm not complaining, but isn't there a lot of Ethel Merman in her scenes? Getting personal: someone ought to tell Spencer Tracy that ownership of a ranch does not constitute the "simple life." Milestones in the career of Sonja Henie all seem to be marked with $$$$$. Today's suggestion for your Must See List: "Lord Jeff."

Credit Frank McHugh for the week's funniest story. Seems that on his recent European trip, the stormy Atlantic had him over the rail. Trying to fight off his affliction, he spent the first two days out of New York, blindly staggering around and around the deck. To his astonishment, he constantly met men who looked vaguely familiar, and almost quarrelled with his wife when she attempted to convince him that there was no one aboard whom they knew. On the fourth day, when fully recovered, he saw the mystery was explained. The doors into the ship's saloon were mirrors. The familiar faces were all his own!

Orry-Kelly, who designs costumes for musicals and gowns for Warner Brothers' lady stars, does not dare walk through any dark alleys on the studio these days. The reason: he designed the new uniforms now being worn by the studio's messenger boys, and the boys do not approve. He-Boy wouldn't, for the uniforms are sky-blue, with crimson sashes, crimson monograms and a multitude of pinks. Scarcely an hour had elapsed after the first appearance of the Orry-Kelly creations before three fights were under way—started by the sarcastic "yoo-hooes" of the studio's ruder gentry.

A good many of our feminine stars do fancy work of one kind or another to pass the time between takes on the set—and the most confirmed addict of them all is Kay Francis, who spends every available minute doing needlework and a multitude of other things like chain smoking. Today, while I was visiting on her set, she sent her secretary on an errand and the secretary inadvertently carried away Kay's sewing basket. Her jitters, when she discovered the loss, were so pronounced that I thought she had sat down on the needles. She paced the floor until the secretary finally returned—and then took up her "nerve-tonic" with such relief that she completely forgot to mention the secretary's mistake.

Had lunch with Loretta Young in her dressing room today and commented on the exquisite craftsmanship apparent in two little

SANTA ANA IS "WHITE SPOT"

The "white spot" of Southern California.

This is the appellation given to Santa Ana by investors from all parts of the state who have called at the chamber of commerce offices during the past few weeks seeking to purchase various types of retail business.

A survey of the city by the promotion and publicity committee of the local booster club, headed by E. B. Sharpley, discovered that there is not one sizable retail establishment in the city of Santa Ana that can be purchased at any price commensurate with the size of the business.

The recent flurry in the investor's market is due to the various signs posted throughout the county, Sharpley holds, and has brought numerous investors to the chamber offices.

On one day last week two men, one with $125,000 and another with $25,000 to invest in some sort of retail business in the city and were forced to admit that they had been unable to find a merchant in town who would consider selling his business.

"We feel that there can be but one translation put on facts of this sort," Sharpley said. "The local merchants are unwilling to sell their businesses because they are making money and feel that they will continue to do so."

"The publicity that has come to Santa Ana during the last few months has been a decided factor in influencing investors to attempt to locate in Santa Ana," Sharpley said.

Seven Pay Fines In Traffic Court

Although no speeders were haled into Santa Ana city court yesterday, their places were taken by boulevard stop violators. Judge J. G. Mitchell's records revealed today.

Five boulevard stop jumpers pleaded guilty, and their fines, were P. C. Laireson, Route 4, Santa Ana Gardens; Frank Valdez, Santa Ana; Lawrence Soto, Santa Ana; and Howard Parks, Live Oak Springs, San Diego county, $5 each, and Francisco Talamantez, Santa Ana, $2. Talamantez paid an additional $3 for failure to appear in court at proper time. Melvin Patterson, Santa Ana, was fined $5 for driving over a fire hose and an additional $2 for failing to appear at proper time.

Sheppard Visits Santa Ana Today

Congressman Harry Sheppard, recently returned from Washington, was meeting local constituents today in the board of supervisors' room at the courthouse, which was placed at his disposal yesterday by the board. Sheppard announced in a communication to the board requesting use of the room, that he will open an office in Santa Ana July 25 and maintain it one month, until August 25.

porcelain figurines on her mantel piece. She explained that they were presented to her, years ago, by an art dealer who admired her work in one of her early pictures. And I'm wondering if that art dealer should not be rated as a prophet. The figurines represent Louis Napoleon and the Empress Eugenie. Loretta is playing Eugenie—the greatest role of her career—in her current picture. Superstitions have been built on flimsier foundations.

Hollywood's goofiest gambling game is the invention of Don Ameche, Hollywood's most incurable better. It is a variation of poker, played with stacks of one dollar bills. The players win or lose by virtue of the poker hands which can be made out of the serial numbers on the bills they hold. Watching a spirited game today, I made the comment that the game doesn't look amusing. Don stared at me with disgust. "You win or lose playing it," he pointed out, "what do you call fun if that doesn't fill the bill?"

The National Safety Council has launched a campaign to reduce the number of automobile deaths over the Fourth of July holidays. The above cartoon is just one of the many ways the Council has employed to warn people of the nation to "Drive Safely"—not only over the holidays, but everyday.

CARE URGED IN U. S. FORESTS OVER JULY FOURTH HOLIDAYS

Forest Supervisor A. P. Dean today requested all persons who plan to visit the Cleveland National forest over the Fourth of July holidays to do their utmost to co-operate in preventing fires in the forests during this period.

"The national forests are the property of the people of the United States, and the public is cordially invited to visit them and enjoy the benefits they afford," Mr. Dean said, "but certain regulations and restrictions must be observed in order that these benefits may be retained and made available for future generations."

According to Dean, the greatest enemy of the forest is fire, and the strict observance of all forest or county regulations governing the use of fire in the forest is essentially a prerequisite to good manners in the forest. "If everyone will observe the following rules," Mr. Dean said, "there should be no man-caused fires over the Fourth."

Drive carefully. Leave fireworks at home. The possession or discharge of all types of fireworks within the national forest is strictly prohibited. Obtain a camp fire permit, and camp only in posted public camp grounds. Completely extinguish your camp fire before leaving it. Smoke only at camp grounds, places of habitation or posted smoking areas, and be ABSOLUTELY SURE that all burning tobacco, cigarettes, cigars or pipe-heels are OUT before disposing of them. Do not smoke in automobiles while driving through the forest.

Free camp fire permits can be obtained at any forest service ranger station, or at the forest service headquarters, 312 Federal building, San Diego, and are necessary before building a fire at any camp ground, whether in the fire place provided, in a camp stove or stores in trailers. This applies to any type of stove regardless of whether it burns wood,

PAGEANT GIVEN FOR LOAN FUND

Children from the combined Meglin studios of Orange county presented an elaborate revue in the Orange Union High school auditorium Friday night before a large audience to aid the student loan fund of the Orange high school.

Interpersed between the ensembles of singing and dancing were specialties of intricate dance routines, acrobatics, accordion and singing solos, duets and the Meglin Harmonettes.

Mrs. Esther Shields was presented with a large bouquet by the mothers of the students for her work in preparing the show as well as accompanying the children at the piano and her teaching of the voice students. Praise was also given the dancing teachers, the Misses Monte Thornton, Cecile Young, Anna Mae Renner and Jeanne Brown. Credit for the execution of the costumes belongs to Mrs. Harry Carroll.

INDIGENT PROBLEM UP TO COMMITTEE

Three members of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce today conferred with William C. Jerome, former county supervisor, on the problem of out-of-state indigents enjoying the welfare provided by the state.

C. H. Holmes, E. B. Sharpley and James A. Utt, appointed by the chamber, have joined forces with the Los Angeles chamber of commerce in seeking state legislation against the influx of indigents from other states into California.

"Every fire is a potential conflagration," Dean says, "and every precaution on the part of the forest visitors or users must be exercised to prevent them from occurring. The most enjoyable Fourth is a safe and sane Fourth and one fire may spoil the enjoyment of thousands of forest visitors, not only over the Fourth of July but possibly for several years to come."

The next total eclipse of the sun, visible in the United States, will occur on July 9, 1945, and the path of the total eclipse will cut across Idaho, Montana and North Dakota. This phenomenon will take place at, or near, sunrise.

ROYAL WIFE OF GRAPPLER IS WATCHING FOR ROYAL STORK

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—(UP)—Princess Baba, the honey-blond daughter of the white Rajah of Sarawak, sat at the ringside of the wrestling matches here last night and confided that a big Sarawakian stork is hovering over her Palo Alto home.

In the ring, her husband, Bob Gregory, of the British Gregory's, and claimant to the United Kingdom lightweight wrestling crown, out-rung and out-roared his opponent, Al Kasaboski, but the princess didn't pay much attention.

Hoping for Boy
The couple, who braved the displeasure of England's second royal family for love, hope the baby will be a boy... either an heir to the Gregory wrestling title or the throne of Sarawak.

"We've decided we want a family and a home," Princess Baba said. The princess married Gregory a year ago in England, and the marriage caused Charles Vyner Brooke, supreme ruler of the North Borneo principality to disinherit the princess.

"But mamma still writes," said Baba, "only she doesn't say nice things about Bob."

Reconciliation Seen
However, the announcement that a child is to be born to the princess was seen as a means of opening a gate to a reconciliation between the Rajah and his daughter.

The fourth generation of Brooke is somewhat shy of male heirs and a crown prince is needed to keep the line on the throne. "Maybe, just maybe," said Gregory, when he finished his panting after the bout. "I've taken a beating from the Sarawak family, and my son will not be a candidate for the title. He's mine, and I'll not have the Brooke family taking him. What has the Rajah ever done for me?"

Uphold Traditions
The Dayang Ketchel Mudah (smallest princess in Sarawak to you) brought a pair of bright eyes to her husband's perspiring English countenance, and said quietly: "Traditions founded by Brooke in 1825 will be upheld to the last small Gregory. If Daddy wants him, we'll educate him and prepare him for the throne."

Nobody said anything about how they know the baby will be a boy. The princess and her husband depend on Gregory's income as a wrestler for a living. They have one maid, and the princess does the cooking on the maid's day off. In Palo Alto there is not a battalion of head-hunting Dyaks to obey the princess's slightest wish. "I can hardly wait to hear what Daddy will say," said Baba.

The Rajah and his wife have

TEST HEATERS FOR ORCHARDS

Many orchard heating devices have been tested and the field of contestants narrowed to a very few, but no conclusion has yet been reached as to whether any of the devices in their present form meet the requirements of the $5000 award, placed in the hands of the Orchard Heating committee last year by C. C. Teague to help speed the solution of the frost protection problem, the committee announced following a meeting here today.

The committee has therefore found it necessary to further extend its decision beyond July 1, in order that devices already submitted and that show merit may be subjected to further tests.

This committee realizes that upon its decision rests a tremendous responsibility to the public and to citrus growers, and to the end that any conclusion reached may be sound exhaustive tests of those devices which have shown the most promise in tests made thus far, are being continued in collaboration with the Agricultural Engineering division of the University of California.

After 16 months of concentrated effort to find a solution to the problem on the part of individuals, corporations and other agencies, all concerned are realizing more and more that an adequate solution of the problem is more difficult of attainment than anyone had previously thought.

SERVICE BETWEEN S. A. BEACH LOOMS

Approving the action taken by the board of directors, the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday appointed three members to act on a committee to investigate the possibility of transportation service from Santa Ana to Huntington Beach.

George Spielman, head of the retail division appointed Carl Stein as chairman of the committee. Stein will be assisted by Lester Carden and George Pae.

Last Monday the board of directors of the chamber of commerce approved working out of a regular transportation schedule between Santa Ana and Huntington Beach and suggested a refund system for patrons of the service who make purchases in Santa Ana.

Several private individuals already have been approached relative to the establishment of a transportation service and plans for starting the service with a large automobile are being considered.

Gypsies Sought By O. A. Officers

A small band of gypsies, wanted in Brea on a larceny charge, was being sought today by Santa Ana officers at request of Police Chief W. H. Williams, Brea, yesterday.

Officers Williams reported that Police Chief James E. Davis of Los Angeles told him the gypsies purportedly had come to Santa Ana recently and were living near the city dump. According to Officer Richard Bradley, members of the band include a dark, heavy set woman about 50; a light complexioned woman about 35; a third woman, description unknown; a small man, having black mustache, and a boy about six years old. Linen Shower Planned
As Surprise
To July Bride-Elect

Miss Ellen Frazee, who will become the bride of Marvin Starry July 10, was feted in charming manner last night when Miss Hazel Cartwright entertained at a linen shower in her home, 1423 Cypress avenue.

Adding to the success of the affair was the element of surprise involved, since Miss Frazee had no idea that they had been planned in her honor. She was showered with linens in colorful variety. As she opened each package, she was asked to make a wish, and this was for the happiness of the donor in each particular case.

Presentation of gifts followed an evening of games. In a contest of bridge, Miss Cartwright won first prize. Miss Eva Berge was rewarded for her high score in cribbage.

Assisting Miss Cartwright throughout the evening was her mother, Mrs. H. S. Cartwright. They observed a Fourth of July motif in appointments, which included colorful covers spreading tables during the refreshment interval, when salad courses were served. Blue bachelorette buttons and red pinholes centered all but one of the tables. This bore a bouquet of white sweet peas in special compliment to the bride-elect.

Invited to share the event with Miss Cartwright and her mother, Mrs. H. S. Cartwright, were the honoree, Miss Frazee and the Misses Eunice Spicer, Eleanor Morilla, Lois Franke, Eva Berge, Betty Martin and Mesdames Harry Manns, Corwin Frazee, Herbert Woodward, Daniel Musko, Miss Cartwright, Ellsworth Starry, Bud Wolfe, all of this city; Miss Dorothy Reed, Los Angeles; Miss Barbara Reed, Orange; John Conkle, Long Beach; Mrs. Lynn Fry, Glendale.

Colorful Motif Adds To Enjoyment Of
Bridge Club Affair

Scroll tallies representing the Declaration of Independence in miniature were features of the party at which Miss Hum Kendall entertained members of the Tri-Quad bridge club, Thursday evening in the Fullerton home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Pansie.

Honors were in candy dishes of firecracker design. Prizes in bridge were won by Miss Margaret Young, Mrs. Russell Daley and Mrs. Pangle, who held the two high and low scores. During the interval following games, a card was read from Miss Edna Mae Helm, a member who is visiting in Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Walter Templeton was elected club treasurer, and will have the responsibility of caring for a fund later to be used for a special party. Plans were made to keep a scrapbook of club clippings, souvenirs and other articles, with Mrs. Kenneth Hill to take charge of selection and organization of the material.

Chocolate eclairs and coffee were served by Miss Kendall to Mrs. Daley, Mrs. Templeton, Mrs. Pangle, Mrs. Hill, Miss Young and Mesdames Virgil Reed, Joseph May, Robert Lulbery and the Misses Blanche Siegel and Jeanette Jorgensen.

IN FRISBY HOME
D. A. Handy of Cincinnati, Ohio, was a dinner guest last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Frisby and son Eugene, 1012 Kilson Drive, where Mr. Handy was an overnight visitor earlier in the week.

The Ohioan plans to leave today or Saturday for the east, after an extended stay in Southern California in his capacity as National Red Cross rehabilitation representative on the flood relief program. He entertained the Frisbys at dinner at Knott's Berry Farm early this week.

Another recent overnight visitor in the Frisby home was Miss Bartelle Hamilton of Cincinnati, who is attending summer school at University of Southern California. Mr. and Mrs. William O. Gerry of Brawley were dinner guests of the Frisbys.

Luncheon Guests Enjoy
Yacht Club Setting
For Party

Responses to the rhymed invitations recently issued by Mrs. C. Mortimer Plum and Mrs. William Thornton White Jr. to a luncheon yesterday at Newport Harbor Yacht club, were in such clever vein, that the hostesses introduced these replies as one phase of the pleasant things they had planned for their guests.

Many of the responses were in such ingenious poetic form, that when read aloud, they heightened the enjoyment of all the guests in the party. This feature came as they reached the dessert course of the luncheon menu served amidst such delightful surroundings.

For Mrs. White and Mrs. Plum had a long table arranged on the clubhouse deck, where the gay seaside life that is exemplified by the yacht club and its setting, was suggested in all decorative details. Mirrors formed a long line of crystal water the length of the table, reflecting the marine blue of agapanthus blossoms, forming a double border. A large blue ship in the very center of the table, had its counterparts in silver, posed at either end. Place cards, like the original invitations, repeated the yacht club insignia and colors of blue and white.

Mrs. Sarah Johnston Haddon lent assistance in checking arrivals and in tallying bridge scores of the afternoon. This survey revealed Mrs. Clarence Holmes as holder of high score, with Mrs. Loyal K. King as second high. When they were presented with charmingly tied gift packages, the circulating prize for bidding and making the final grand slam was retained by Mrs. Hugh Lowe and Mrs. Rex Kennedy, who discovered that it was capable of division.

Nine tables were required for bridge play, and the hostesses included two out-of-town friends on their guest list. Mrs. Charles Lewis of Puente, and Mrs. William Taylor Stearns of New York City, here for an extended visit with Mrs. Haddon.

Mother and Daughter
Give Luncheon for Houseguests

When Mrs. S. B. Patton and her daughter, Dorcas Hendrie entertained Wednesday in their home, 1419 Martha Lane, they honored their houseguests, Miss Betty Richardson and Miss Dorothy Meyers of Canton, Ohio. Miss Richardson is a niece and cousin of the co-hostesses.

Completing the party were Mrs. Paul B. Patton of Erie, Pa., also a houseguest of Mrs. Patton and her daughter; Mesdames Margaret Cox, Herbert McConnell, Everett Kingsbury and Warren Webb.

Mrs. Webb had sent the many colorful flowers used in brightening the home. Luncheon was served in a charming setting.

Miss Richardson and Miss Meyers, who came two weeks ago, plan to remain in Southern California until some time in August. They are taking various sidetrips. Last week they went to Catalina in company with Miss Mary Bower of Whittier and Ray Bower of Chicago.

Party Hostess Stages
Contract Luncheon
At Villa Riviera

Hostess last night to members of First Baptist Pabolo class, Mrs. Clyde Cave had planned the party as a special compliment to Mrs. Victor Soper, with a stork motif in evidence in all decorations of her home at 2107 North Ross street.

Several appropriate contests were introduced, but guests derived the greatest pleasure from writing cheerful little notes to be read by Mrs. Soper during her coming hospital days. As climax to this interval, Mrs. Soper was made the center of an interested circle when she was privileged to open a collection of be-ribboned gift packages. These were placed on the dining room table, each one attached to ribbons which twined around the neck of a tall and serious stork.

To complete her hospitality, Mrs. Cave served Mexican chocolate with a variety of luscious little sandwiches and hors d'oeuvres, to her guests who included with her honoree, Mrs. Soper, Mrs. W. A. Atkinson, class teacher, Mesdames J. Welles Brown, J. C. Johnson, L. E. Coffman, Charles E. Bacon, William E. Dennis, J. E. Swankie, Roy Sidney, J. Leslie Steffenson, R. L. Talley, Roscoe Moore, Earl Toles, Alfred Bradley, J. F. B. Richards, the Misses Mildred Marchant, Emma Lee Johnson, Vera Coad, Ruth Coad and Irene Catland.

STATE REGENT RECEIVES

Officers and committee chairmen and vice-chairmen in the California organization of Daughters of the American Revolution, were entertained at luncheon Wednesday in the home of the state regent, Mrs. John W. Hodge of Los Angeles. Regents of individual chapters were included in the guest list for the pleasant day.

Santa Ana was represented by two guests, Mrs. Cotton Mather, 2022 North Ross street, regent of the local chapter, and Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, 1911 Spurgeon street, who is vice-chairman of the Angel Island committee in the state organization.

SUMMER IN BOSTON

Mrs. De Witt Dudley and daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Dudley, 532 South Barton street, plan to leave tonight for Boston, Mass., where they will spend the summer with Mrs. Dudley's sisters, Mrs. Frederick Stock and Mrs. Arthur Chaffer.

En route to Boston, the Santa Anas plan to stop in Hillsdale, Mich., to visit with relatives. They will return home in September.

Music's Charms Reign
At Pleasant Event
In Seamans Home

An interesting musical event of the week was the studio recital with which Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Seamans of Yorba Linda entertained a delighted group of guests from all sections of Orange county and different Southern cities.

With Mrs. Seamans introducing the various assisting artists in her usual gracious manner, all responded with special zest and skill, to the keen appreciation of the privileged guests. Miss Ruth Harvey, a cousin of the hosts, opened the musicale with a solo song charmingly, Vladimir Lenski, concert violinist, was joined in several numbers by his gifted young pupil, Miss Charlotte Stafford of this city. For his closing number, he chose Sir Thomas Moore's romantic song, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and asked his hostess to accompany him at the piano.

A dramatic reading from Shakespeare was presented by Mrs. Katherine Filcher, after she had read a poem in honor of Mrs. Seamans. Several songs followed, by Miss Berne Durrell, promising pupil of Mme. Ellen Beach Yaw, who was accompanied by Miss Georgiana Lay. Original readings, including several request numbers, were given by Mrs. Grace Hyde Trine.

As climax to her program, Mrs. Seamans presented Mme. Ellen Beach Yaw who sang an aria from Faust, and the "Swiss Wedding Song," composed by her hostess in response to the enthusiasm of the guests, she then sang "Last Rose of Summer," which she has sung in all parts of the world. This inspired a reminiscence of Mrs. Roger Noble Burnham of Los Angeles, of a brilliant affair a few years ago in Honolulu where the diva was singing. It seemed a happy finale to the musicale, that all the guests should join in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

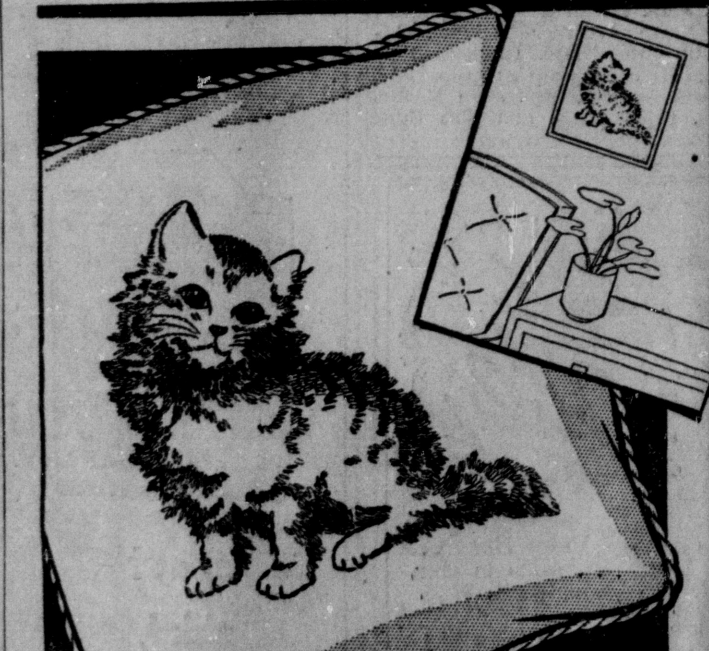

While this closed the program, it did not close the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Seamans, who served a buffet supper at beautifully decorated tables in the rose arbor. Mr. Seamans as toastmaster, instituted a round of lively talks from various guests, including Richard Warner Bost of Fullerton Junior college; Judge Henry M. Willis of Los Angeles; Frank Tenney Johnson, nationally known painter;

Mrs. Harvey W. Briggs, head of Cumnock school; David Abbey Paige of Hollywood, official artist with the recent Byrd South Pole expedition; Dr. Joseph Choate of Los Angeles, world traveler and finished orator; Ralph Waldo Trine, author of "In Tune With the Infinite," and Harold Hurlbut of Hollywood, whose Swedish dialect stories kept the group in a ripple of laughter.

Among guests from this vicinity who shared in the enjoyable affair, were Mr. and Mrs. Vladimir Lenski of Costa Mesa, with their son, Joseph Lenski, Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, Mrs. J. R. Medlock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pritchard, Miss Charlotte Stafford, Dr. and Mrs. Horace Leeming, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rensberg and the Misses Nell Marie and Katherine Rensberg.

Mrs. W. Dean Johnston, 2445 North Park Boulevard, is reported making a satisfactory recovery following a several months' illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Fall and children, Rodella and Floyd, plan to leave tomorrow for their home in Coalinga after a ten days' visit.

SOCIETY CLUBS WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Capistrano Gardens
Are Setting
For Auxiliary Event

Terraced gardens of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Esslinger's home at San Juan Capistrano were rendezvous for Orange County Medical Auxiliary members and their husbands Wednesday evening when the Auxiliary staged its annual summer fiesta.

Forty-five members and guests assembled on the upper terrace early in the evening, enjoying the steak-grilling process which of course preceded the serving of dinner. Tall bouquets of gladioluses in varying shades added to the natural charm of the outdoor setting. The croquet course on the second terrace, and the lawn and flower garden on the lower floor of the landscaped grounds, were enjoyed during the evening.

Dr. Esslinger's brother-in-law and

Dr. and Mrs. Jones contributed songs to the occasion, with Dr. Jones playing guitar accompaniment.

On the committee in charge were Mrs. Esslinger and Mrs. A. C. Robinson of Garden Grove; Mrs. Lillian Wilson, Anaheim; Mrs. Harry Huffman, Mrs. Dexter Ball, Mrs. John Ball, Mrs. Milo K. Tedstrom and Mrs. E. H. Sutherland, Santa Ana; Mrs. Harold Gobar, Mrs. C. F. Kohlenberger, Fullerton; Mrs. Glenn Curtis, Brea.

After dinner, the group went indoors for an informal session. The game room proved of special interest.

Absent members of the Auxiliary included the new president, Mrs. Hiram Curry, who left this week for an extended visit in the east; and the junior past president, Mrs. G. W. Olsen of Fullerton, who is enroute to Alaska.

Regular meetings of the group will be resumed in October.

Mixing Bowl
BY ANN MEREDITH

A proportion of the readers of this column live in the dry belt, where keeping bread and cake reasonably moist is a real problem. This contribution comes from a woman who worked out her own method for keeping cakes fresh and fit to eat.

"A cake need not be thoroughly cold to be iced, if it is set in an automatic refrigerator on low cold immediately afterwards. This has saved me much time, not only in washing up all the messy baking and icing dishes, but also in speeding up the time to wait until the cake can be served. Best of all: the cake will slice more evenly, will not stick to the plate, and the icing will be at its best."

Fourth of July Supper
Barbecued Crab with Sauce
Toasted French bread
Cheese, Pickles, Radishes
Mixed Vegetables Salad
Boston Cooler or Orange Sherbet
Coffee, hot or iced, Iced Tea.
I know every last bit of flavor in this supper...I was lucky enough to be guest a week ago when it was served.

Barbecue Sauce for Crab
1 can, each chicken broth and consomme.
1 tablespoon, each, steak sauce, mushroom, catsup, tomato cocktail sauce and soy sauce
2 teaspoons paprika
2 cloves of garlic, slightly crushed.
Juice of a lemon and

4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt and dash of cayenne.
Prepare one-half medium sized crab for each person. Have sauce mixed and hot in big kettle, drop in crab and steam (not boil, ever) about 15 minutes. Skim crab onto platter and serve the sauce in small "dunking" bowls.

The bread rolls are done this way. Cut a crust off a loaf of fresh French bread, slice into thin slabs the long way, spread with soft butter and plenty of garlic salt. Roll up, and then cut each roll into inch-wide smaller rolls, each roll anchored by toothpicks. Toast in a hot oven. (The bread is dunked in the sauce, the crab you struggle with, by hand, and plenty of paper napkins).

Everything in the green line goes into the salad...lettuce, celery, radishes, cucumber, cooked green peas, tomatoes, asparagus tips and diced avocado. The dressing is olive oil and Italian wine vinegar (1 part vinegar, 3 parts oil). And, of course, the perfume definitely garlic.

VACATION TRAVELS

Following a long-established custom, Mr. and Mrs. Park A. Barmore, 1503 French street, tomorrow will serve their final meal for over a month in their little Main street Arcade cafe, and while the cafe is undergoing alterations, will devote the entire month of July to travel.

They plan to visit the Yosemite on their motor trip north to San Francisco, where they anticipate their first experience in crossing the new bridges. They will continue to Coeur d'Alene, Ida. and will go as far east as Minnesota before turning homeward again. Various national parks and points of scenic interest will be visited by the Barmores before their return to resume business interests in early August.

Beauceant Is Feted
At Many Affairs

Southern California assemblies, Supreme Order of Beauceant, are making the current visit of their supreme worthy president, Mrs. James E. Collier, an occasion long to be remembered, not only by their distinguished guest, but by members of the various units who are joining to honor her.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Collier made her official visit to the Long Beach assembly, and Santa Ana members who were present included Mrs. J. H. Shaw, Mrs. Henry Meyer, Mrs. Henry Diers and Mrs. J. W. Hancock. Mrs. Shaw is president of Santa Ana assembly, and today, with presidents of the remaining eight Southern California assemblies, was to be included among special guests at a luncheon in Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, complimenting Mrs. Collier and Mrs. J. Joseph Smith, past supreme worthy president. Hostesses at this luncheon were Mrs. Guy McPheters, marshall in the Supreme Assembly, and Mrs. Carl O. Metcalfe who also fills a supreme office, that of mistress of the wardrobe.

The final event planned to honor Mrs. Collier will come next Tuesday evening, when the presidents of the nine Southern California assemblies, with their husbands, will be dinner hosts at Tropical Inn, 5879 West Washington boulevard, Los Angeles. This event is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock, and dinner will be followed by cards in the Hollywood home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Binford. Mrs. Binford is president of Hollywood S. O. O. B.

Counterfeit Bill Is Passed In S. A.

Two men who ordered beer at the Santee Coffee shop in the Finley hotel yesterday afternoon passed a counterfeit $5 bill to Miss Gladys Tucker, employee, police were informed. The bill is the third of its kind passed in Santa Ana recently. The bill is a copy of a Federal reserve bank note issued at San Francisco. Its serial number, 1925 series, is L-37664771-A. One man is described as weighing 200 pounds, being six feet tall, wearing dark suit and black hat, and having peck marks, the second as weighing 160 pounds, being smooth-shaven, five feet, six inches tall, and wearing brown suit and brown cap.

About 500 children, playing with blasting caps, are injured annually in the United States. Eighty per cent of these accidents occur in rural or semi-rural districts.

Police News

Upon complaint of Henry Strickland, Route 4, Harbor boulevard, Huntington Beach, that two men were "appropriating" his barn for a camp site and helping themselves to his water supply, Deputy Sheriff Ezra Stanley and Ed Hoffman investigated. They found Ralph Valencia, his sons, 7 and 9 years old, and David Salander, camping at the barn. The men said they meant no harm and agreed to leave today.

Convicted in Anaheim on a battery complaint, Chester Arundel, 44, Los Angeles insurance executive, was booked at county jail yesterday afternoon to begin serving a 25-day term.

Arrested at his Los Angeles home by Deputy Sheriff John Gilmore, Lawrence Nelson, 41, was brought here last night and booked at county jail on a charge of failure to support his minor child.

Two bicycles were being sought today following reports of their theft from a parking place beside the State theater. Gordon McBride, 1102 West Second, told police yesterday his black and white "Rambler" bicycle was stolen the night before while Gene Snodgrass, 1116 West First, said his black and rust "Racer" was taken at the same time.

Reporting that a car bearing license No. 5-X-802 had collided with and damaged her trailer, Mrs. C. A. Nave, 1211 Maple avenue, asked Santa Ana police to give her the name of the registered owner of the car. Officers checked with Sacramento license officials and reported the license was issued to John C. Howell, Tustin.

Accused of living as man and wife with a 17-year-old Mexican girl at the 17th street and Verano road Mexican colony, 49-year-old Manuel Rico, who has a wife and family in Corona, according to officers, was arrested and jailed here last night.

Ten Firestone tires, valued at $130, were the loot taken in a burglary of the Firestone Service store, 108 East First street, which is being investigated today by Santa Ana police. According to investigation of Assistant Chief Harry Fink, a bar was used to force apart the iron bars of the gate used in locking the place.

Boys who assertedly were hurling stones against the house of Mrs. K. H. Reed, 1017 East Chestnut, last night, could not be located when Officers George Boyd and Francis Norton made a search of the neighborhood.

Wanted by Santa Ana officers on a city court bench warrant which charged intoxication, Clarence McNeely, 25, Los Angeles bartender, formerly of Santa Ana, was arrested by Los Angeles police last night. He was brought here by Santa Ana officers and booked at county jail.

A prowler at the rear of the C. D. Ferry place, 1819 North Ross, last night, could not be found when Officers Harry Prichard and Roy Hartley sought him.

152 MILES OF FENCING IS COMPLETED ALONG AQUEDUCT

One of the world's longest fence construction jobs, which stretches for 152 miles along the Colorado river aqueduct, was finished on June 18 when the contractors completed the erection of the fence around the Cajalco reservoir.

Long enough to reach it, a Copper Basin, Hayfield, and Cajalco straight line from Los Angeles to San Luis Obispo, the fences enclose all open sections of the aqueduct. These sections include the 62 miles of open canals, the Camino switching station, the Gene Wash,

FAMILY COURTESY

Emily is in her senior year in college. Her mother and father had no chance for a college education, but they stretched a good many points to send their daughter to the college she selected. Soon she will be graduated. How her father and mother have looked forward to this day, to the time of her maturity, to her success in life, she can never know. Here she is, telling her mother that she wants to have a party for her college chums, but she must have it at the Inn.

"We will do our best to let you have the party, dear, but why at the Inn? We could do it at home very nicely, and with half the cost. It's going to cost a great deal to have it at the Inn, you know. And we have had to be very careful this year."

"There's no use having it if I have to have it at home. If you must know, we have to have cocktails and wine, and you and father won't have drinks served in the house."

"Cocktails? And wine? For children? Like you? Impossible. You don't mean that you drink?"

"There you are. Just impossible. Everybody drinks that way. If I can't treat my friends properly I won't have them at all."

Leaving the ethics of drinking and not drinking out of the question, what about the courtesy that a daughter of such parents owes them? What is one to think of a young woman who accepts all the love and devotion and sacrifice of her parents for more than twenty years and then, in the end, affronts them, shocks them, and turns her back upon all they hold dear? Wouldn't common courtesy, common decency, forbid such behavior?

Sons and daughters of families who oppose smoking and drinking ought, at least, to have a decent regard for the feelings of their parents as far as behavior in the home is concerned. If they must smoke and drink, let their people know it, as courteously as possible, but refrain from trying to force their ideas upon the family. Father and mother are entitled to their way of living, to their way of administering the affairs of home.

What is at the root of the trouble is the deception the young people practice. They deny smoking and drinking. Then something leaks out and father and mother are worried. They are no longer certain of the behavior of their son or daughter, and uncertainty makes them afraid. If they could be certain about the principles that guided the behavior of the children they would not worry so much and there would be less friction.

Let the young people tell the truth. Let the old folks adjust themselves as well as they can to the ways of their children. But at all times, let the sons and daughters of the family remember the ways of their fathers and treat them with gentleness and courtesy. Parents understand consideration when they meet it, and that is about all they ever ask of their children. Little enough, isn't it?

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Trouble With Number Tables," in which he explains an easy way to help children improve in arithmetic. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE SANDHAM—hero, who thought he was on top of the world until he was snatched into KILLY ARCHER—brother, who thought he was headed for the altar until he was snatched into ED, the WEASEL—gangster, who thought he was headed somewhere, too, but affairs somehow got mixed up.

Yesterday, The Weasel escapes the police and the trio moves on to the next scene.

CHAPTER VIII

WITH this remark conversation lapsed. For mile after mile Joe drove on steadily, with Kelly sleeping peacefully at his side. Two o'clock in the morning found the Ford west of Albany proceeding swiftly toward Syracuse. The Weasel had directed Joe as to what roads to take to his hideout across from Niagara Falls. Shortly they stopped for gas and the Weasel obtained a New York tabloid from the all-night station. As they moved on again he searched for news of his robbery.

"Here it is," he announced. "Bank robber ee-ludes po-lice. Stop a second so I can read it." The account was brief. It stated merely that the bank at North Colliston, Connecticut, had been held up by a lone bandit early that morning; that the robber was believed to have gotten away with approximately $20,000; that his car had been found abandoned, but the man himself appeared to have made a clean getaway; that there was no clue to his identity.

"No clue to his identity," quoted the Weasel, brimming with self-satisfaction. "I'll say dey ain't I pulled dat job clean an' neat. I . . . hey, wot da hell?"

The paper had been suddenly twitched from his fingers. And Joe Sandham, eyes popping, was staring at the reproduction of a photograph that occupied almost the whole of the back page. Below the picture was the caption: SOCIETY GIRL MISSING—KIDNAPING FEARED.

The blurb read: Up to a late hour last night nothing had been heard of Miss Caroline Archer who disappeared from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Archer of 895 Park Avenue, on Tuesday. Members of Miss Archer's family could not be reached by reporters today. But detectives in charge of the case feared that Miss Archer has been kidnapped. The Weasel was leaning over Joe's shoulder breathing stertorously down his neck. Suddenly he emitted a low cry.

"Hey, dat's, dat's . . ." He broke off, as if at a loss for suitable words, and gestured first at the picture, then at the sleeping Kelly.

"Yes," said Joe composedly, "you've got something. It's the same girl."

"But kidnappin'?" The Weasel seemed unable to go on. He was flustered.

All at once something bright raced across Joe's eyes. He glanced at Kelly, stirring a little in her sleep. He screwed his head part way around and looked at the Weasel, who sat on the candy case with his mouth hanging open. Then, very quietly, he started the car.

"Weasel," he said in a whisper, "punks like you sure hand me a laugh."

"You mean," he said, drawing a long breath, "dat you're kidnappin' dis baby?"

"What else would I mean?"

THE magnitude of this idea so impressed Ed the Weasel that for a full minute he sat silent and wondering. Then he pulled himself together and gave vent to a subdued whistle.

"I tought dat wuz something screwy wid dis setup," said the Weasel shaking his head.

"Nothing screwy at all. I'm only doing what any other fellow with a brain between his ears would do. Listen, Weasel, I met this girl by accident. But as soon as I found out who she was, I saw my chance. She was on her way to Boston to marry some bird up there. But her car got wrecked so she asked me to drive her. Well, I had about as much intention of driving her to the moon as to Boston. And I was just—just—figuring things out when you came along. And now—she sighed regretfully—"I suppose I'll have to cut you in."

The Weasel grasped this. This was the kind of language he spoke. He thrust his gun against Joe's back.

"You're tellin' me," he said. "I'll say you're gonna cut me in—and how. 'Cause I got a gun, see? An' I'm runnin' the show, plenty."

"There you go," said Joe disgustedly. "Gettin' tough. You gun guys have no art, no finesse. All you know is rough stuff. First of all you might tell me what kind of a place you and this Cissy Jane have in Canada?"

"Ain't much of a place," the Weasel told him. "It's a kinda shack."

"Shack, eh? Well, that sounds all right. Where is it?"

"Pretty near St. Catharines. 'Ontario'?"

"Skip it. I guess it's Ontario, all right. Now then, do you think that Cissy can handle this girl? She's a redhead, you know. They're plenty tough."

The Weasel scoffed. "Handle her? Listen, fella, Cissy can shoot da light out a candle at 50 yards."

"Well, before you do anything else when we get there," said Joe decisively, "you'll take Cissy's gun away from her. We can't afford to have her—this girl hurt or anything. Not even scratched. They don't pay off on dead bodies, you know."

"Wot you gonna do," inquired the Weasel heavily, "write a ransom note?"

"Yup."

"Wot'll we say? I ain't much good at writin'."

"Don't you worry, Shake-speare," said Joe. "I'll do the literary work. Is this shack of yours decent at all? This girl's got class. We can't keep her in a rathole."

"Aw, da shack ain't so bad," said the Weasel. "It's good enough for Cissy."

"That," said Joe, with impeccable scorn, "makes everything okay. Well, how about going straight there? We better get out of the country before we fool around with ransom notes or anything. Time enough for that later. I suggest we drive like hell for Niagara Falls."

"Sure," said the Weasel. And he added: "Dis here's a natural, ain't it?"

"You spoke that time. By the way, we haven't said anything about the cut. How would fifty-fifty be?"

"Fifty-fifty," said the Weasel. "Is okkideko wid me."

Joe bent his attention on the road. Presently he reached over and switched on the dashboard light.

"I can see the road better without it," he explained. "We've got to make time now."

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 1.—(UP)—The stock market today recovered all of yesterday's losses and moved into new high ground for the year in moderately active trading.

Utilities featured. The average gain was 1/2 per cent. The industrial average also made a new 1938 top.

Preferred shares in the utility sector had gains ranging to 3 points, while common stocks were fractionally higher. The market was buoyed by higher prices in the utility sector, which moved up on moderate demand.

Leading industrial issues were 1 to 2 points higher. Chemicals made good recovery. Building shares were popular. Steel made their best gains in weeks.

Market betterment was attributed mainly to purchases by the largest traders, who took sizable amounts of stock. The "little fellows" continued to accumulate shares and some foreign investors.

Many commodity markets will close tomorrow in line with their usual practice, but all stock and other security markets and banks will remain open.

Montague and Von Elm's exhibition junket will take them to San Jose, Modesto, Eugene and Portland, Ore.; Walla Walla, Spokane, Seattle and Aberdeen, Wash.; San Francisco, Santa Cruz, Long Beach and San Diego, and then through Eastern states.

Swanson Returns to Midget Racing

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—Bob Swanson, a young bond boy who a year ago was one of America's premier midget automobile racers, came back to the gasoline tracks here last night—and for once the crowd didn't boo him.

On the night of Oct. 1, 1937, Swanson was pulled out of his tiny automobile. The car had been crushed like an eggshell. Swanson's body was badly broken. For six months he was in a hospital and even today he can't walk normally.

Last night he was aided into the car for the first time since the crash. The capacity crowd of spectators which a year ago booed and jered him every Thursday night because he seemed to be a defeated, rose as a man and applauded.

Swanson won the trophy dash in 47.41 seconds, then came right back and placed second to Fred Friday in the featured 50-lap event.

Supervisors Get Assessment Rolls

The county supervisors, adjourning their special year-end meeting yesterday, prepared to meet again next Tuesday to receive the assessment rolls from County Assessor James Sleeper as part of the business coming before them. Earlier plans to meet Monday, July 4, to receive the assessment rolls, were abandoned a sunnecuary, that being a legal holiday.

Supervisors Get Assessment Rolls

The county supervisors, adjourning their special year-end meeting yesterday, prepared to meet again next Tuesday to receive the assessment rolls from County Assessor James Sleeper as part of the business coming before them.

Earlier plans to meet Monday, July 4, to receive the assessment rolls, were abandoned a sunnecuary, that being a legal holiday.

The meeting yesterday was the purpose of examining various balances of the county and transfer funds if any funds were found short. But all were in black, so no transfers were required.

DRIVE CAREFULLY—SAVE A LIFE—

MAN'S IMPROVEMENTS

"How far that little candle throws his beams. So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

News comes of an achievement of science that makes the unscientific mind reel with wonder. A vapor lamp has been developed whose light is so great that only the burning substance beneath the surface of the sun would equal it.

The lamp is a little column of vapor about as thick as the lead in a pencil, and scarcely longer. A man could hold in one hand enough of these lamps to light all the airports in the United States.

We've come a long way from candles, but a good deed continues to shine with a brightness made doubly radiant by contrast with the vast and excessive darkness which surrounds it.

Man continues to be the most obstinate material for improvement that genius ever set its hand to.

STAMPING ON THE FIREBUG

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that during 1937 further notable progress was made in combating one of the most despicable of all crimes—arson.

For the period 1932 to 1936, inclusive, the yearly totals of both arrests and convictions for arson underwent an uninterrupted decline, in spite of increased vigilance by police, prosecuting authorities and insurance company investigators. In other words, the decline meant that the efficiency of this work proved to be a deterrent. A great many people who were tempted to commit arson saw that they couldn't get away with it.

During 1937, there was a slight increase in arrests and convictions over 1936, which is accounted for by the unfavorable economic conditions prevailing during the last half of the year. Even so, it is a noteworthy fact that in 1937 arrests were the lowest for any year of the past ten, excepting 1936, and that the ratio of convictions to acquittals was improved in favor of the former, which testifies to the success and energy of prosecutors.

The 1937 figures tell the story. Arrests rose 6 per cent over the previous year. Convictions increased by more than 21 per cent, and acquittals were less than 5 per cent greater. And the ratio of convictions to acquittals was 80 per cent.

This is good news for America. The arsonist deserves no pity. He works in the dark and every time he strikes, the lives of innocent persons are endangered. Due to the surprise element, the chance of loss of life in arson fires is often abnormally high. The men who are fighting arson are serving us all.

MILLION CHILDREN CAST ASIDE

A state of civilization which permits the bombing of thousands of inoffensive civilians has become commonplace and accepted during the last 10 years.

But, perhaps there still is a capacity to be shocked at a civilization that permits children to go homeless and starving down the path to squalor, disease and death.

When the history of this era is written, perhaps the blackest blot upon it will be its treatment of children. When adults are bombed and massacred and driven by marching men from their homes, it is bad enough. But after all, it is their world, and it is as they order it.

But the children, brought into the world without a will of their own, living amid circumstances which they have not yet had a chance to affect, they are the blackest tragedy of all.

Such a picture comes back from Spain through workers for the Spanish Child Welfare association, which, with backers of the Church, the Quakers, and other humanitarian groups, is trying to help the children left helpless in the backwash of both sides of the Spanish civil war.

A million children, whose parents are either dead, or lost, or fighting on one side or the other, deserted, underfed and sick, whimpering in terror of things they do not understand—that is the most terrible toll of war in Spain. Quaker relief workers tell their tales of mothers standing in lines carrying their hot, feverish children, every one a hospital case, weak with suffering. The three 50-bed Quaker hospitals in the Alicante region tried to serve 50,000 helpless mothers and children who need help desperately.

Advancing or retreating armies have slaughtered the cattle; there is no milk for these Spanish babies. Practically no meat, and very little rice and wheat. If the brave Quaker volunteers can supply them with a bowl of cocoa and a chunk of bread in the morning, and a dish of beans at night, they have done what all Spain is now unable to do.

Such relief workers cannot forget 9000 refugees huddling in a single deserted factory building in Murcia amid indescribable filth, mere chattering animals with everything stripped from them that made life human and livable.

Let those who talk lightly of civil and class warfare consider what it has meant to Spain. It will take brilliant social results to repay Spain for these wasted and whimpering children.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON
World Copyright 1938
By King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The official damper was turned down on Aubrey Williams' fiery political speech to relief workers by as smooth a series of dovetailing coincidences as ever happened to gather together into one political miracle.

The WPA assistant director spoke extemporaneously when he told relievers, in effect, to get out and work for the election of Roosevelt supporters. So no official record was kept. A paraphrased transcript of his remarks was sent to the Senate campaign funds investigating committee by the Workers' Alliance, the relief audience which he addressed. Even this only available transcript contained the tell-tale quotations: "We've got to keep our friends in power. I thought that Friday night speech (of Mr. Roosevelt) was wonderful. I don't need to tell you. You know your friends very well."

But Mr. Williams said this was probably not correct, or the committee decided with record-breaking swiftness, that inasmuch as it had no official transcript, it could do nothing except to slap Mr. Williams on the wrist and tell him not to do it again.

This smothered the blaze effectively, but the truth is three newspaper reporters heard the speech and have some notes on it which tell a different story. They got together afterward to compare words and phrases, so their composite quotations would be as nearly correct as possible.

These show the Workers' Alliance version was mild, that Mr. Williams really erupted with the most incendiary political speech any government official has made in many a year. He attacked congress, attacked Germany and Russia, and disposed of any possible hallucination that his words were non-political by saying, "Get out and work for your liberal friends."

The Workers' Alliance version, for instance, omitted the reference to congress entirely, and had Williams saying: "There would have been many things straightened out if he (the President) had received the support that he should have received." The reporters, however, found that Williams said: "Some things would be different this very hour if the President had got votes at critical times on the hill."

The W. A. handout further recorded Williams as saying the American people had "tasted blood," and that: "The men who stand for this sort of things (government support of symphonies, painting, writing) are the men you are going to send to the elections." The reporters caught him still tasting blood, but saying: "The people who stand for government support of these things are those who are going to win elections."

His remarks on Germany and Russia were missing entirely from the W. A. version, but the reporters heard him say:

"The masses hope for government of the people. It is a most discouraging thing to see power slip from the masses into the hands of the few, whether in Germany, Russia or the United States. Something must be done about it. He did not say what."

How the assistant WPA director happened to make such a valuable speech, blood and thunder political speech to needy men on relief is not fully explained even by his friends. Only sympathetic excuse available is that Williams became excited by the applauding crowd and said more than he intended to.

Heretofore the Workers' Alliance has been coming down about once a month demanding higher wages. General's kick the WPA officials around. Instead of resenting Williams' advice this time, they cheered enthusiastically. The surprise, they say, was too much for him. He said what he really thought.

Note—After leaving the senate investigating committee, Mr. Williams caught a train for Ohio to deliver an address to a Negro organization.

From an article in a current magazine:

"We know from experience that politicians, hungry for position, do not hesitate to make capital of human misery. We know also from past experience, that the arguments which will be used (in this campaign) will be aimed at emotions rather than at reason."

The article is signed by Williams' boss, Harry Hopkins. The WPA chief also says:

"That minor politicians of both parties have tried to influence, intimidate and even coerce WPA workers in certain areas. I have no doubt. The large majority of American workers have too much sense to be browbeaten by petty politicians."

If the words and actions of government officials seem slightly confusing to you at times consider the plight of President Charles Hook of American Rolling Mills.

Just after he received a commission from Mr. Roosevelt to investigate British labor policy for the U. S. government on a presidential committee, he received a summons from the National Labor Relations Board to answer CIO charges against the labor policy of his company.

Stamps and Coins

Clearing House

Fellow Citizens:

Two recent letters appearing in the Clearing House, written by Lou Betts and Ben Mullen are interesting but not very convincing. They are similar in tone and purpose so the discussion of one will suffice for both.

Mr. Mullen quotes Mr. Betts with full approval as follows: "The more the unemployed are compensated the more they will consume, and people consuming without producing take away from those who do produce." The quotation like many that have appeared, previously in The Register, is inaccurate. The latter half of the quotation should read—"The more the unemployed are compensated, the less will be consumed by those who are employed."

You see we may "take away" from those who produce without lessening their consumption. So long as people can and do produce more than they demand for personal consumption, the latter part of the quotation, as written by Mr. Betts, is absolutely false. There has not been a day since 1921, when there was need for anyone to limit his consumption if he was able and willing to buy. There has been overproduction or underconsumption (whichever you choose to call it) during that whole period. I have lived in Santa Ana for the past ten years and have never seen the day when I could not have multiplied a hundred fold the purchase of anything I needed. The only limit on my consumption was what I was willing and able to pay. Except for that one slip, Mr. Mullen's first paragraph meets my hearty approval. The remainder of the letter I consider the most foolish of the many foolish letters that have appeared in this column.

Mr. Mullen quotes President Roosevelt as saying, "It is inconceivable that we should let nature take its course." On that text he preaches a sermon on nature, proving to his satisfaction that the president is all wrong. In my view the president is absolutely right, and I can not see how any intelligent person can honestly question his statement. It is no New Deal idea either. For the last fifty years I have been told in school and college, from the pulpit and from the stump, that the chief glory of man was his conquest of nature. Were our ancestors letting nature take its course when they cut down the magnificent forests, using the trees to build ships, factories, houses and barns, and the ground they covered for farms? Were they letting nature take its course when they constructed canals to enable vessels to float from a lower to a higher level contrary to the natural course of all floating things? Are we letting nature take its course when we build such works as Boulder dam and its accompanying works, furnishing immense power for industry, a beautiful lake for recreation, protection from floods in the lower valley, and carrying life giving water for hundreds of miles from its natural flow?

Are we going to longer let nature take its course and destroy millions of our wealth as it did during the flood last spring? I think those of us who pray are paying to our God these days that we may have that part of nature called the Santa Ana river under control before another deluge comes. If we insist on controlling nature in her aspects which we had no hand in making why is it sacrilege to control it in our partnership undertakings? Like the rest of the New Deal batters Mr. Mullen has his cry over plowing under crops and killing cattle and hogs. That is not a New Deal idea. The administration borrowed it from people who had been practicing it for years. We get our meat mainly because the great Danes slaughter their male calves as they do not need them for their business. We have heard for years of those growers and their plans for a fair hearing, we may agree there is some virtue in controlled production. By the way, we know the industrialists have been practicing

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

WEALTH AND INCOME
/BY ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

One day over 14 years ago, the writer stood looking at the complex railway network in the heart of the Ruhr region of Germany. The area was still occupied by the French. Germany was suffering the aftermath of inflation which had come to a climax in October 1923. Everywhere there were signs of great wealth. Railway cars were immovable on sidings and covered with snow. In all directions were huge factory buildings, but they were silent. Railway tracks were rusted. Idle men thronged Essen, the heart of that vast industrial region.

There was wealth in abundance but no activity and hence no income from the properties. The French failed in their endeavors because they could not keep the men and the machinery at work. The wealth was unimportant unless income could be secured from it and in this case income would have come from active factories manufacturing steel products carried over the railways to markets where they would have been sold and paid for.

The above is a clear cut example of the difference between wealth and income. As understandable as that difference is there are probably more errors committed by the general public and its representatives in government, through failure to distinguish between the two than in any other way.

Notice another illustration. Our governments, more particularly our cities, secure a large part of their revenues by taxing real estate. The amount of the tax is determined by placing a valuation on the real estate and then applying to it a tax rate. The real estate is wealth. The owner can pay his tax only in case he has income with which to make payment. This income appears if the real estate is used in a way that will yield it. This income may be secured by the raising and marketing of crops, by the construction and operation of factories whose products are sold and paid for, or in some other way. Unless the real estate which is wealth produces income the cities get little or no revenue. We call a real estate tax a tax on wealth but it is merely a device for taking from the owner a part of his income.

Recently a large majority of the melon growers of the Imperial valley approved the idea of destroying a third of the crop so as to get better prices for the other two thirds. A group of intelligent, educated women were discussing the proposition and all expressed horror at such a waste of food when people are in such great need. I admit it would be better if possible to save those melons and give them to persons who could not afford to buy them.

If we can forget the propaganda we have been fed for years, and give those growers and their plans a fair hearing, we may agree there is some virtue in controlled production. By the way, we know the industrialists have been practicing

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The ineffable Aubrey Williams, of WPA, tells relief workers that they should vote for "their friends." What he meant was clear because he said it in applauding the President's fireside chat, which said the same thing less directly.

About the same time, WPA, which hasn't enough money to relieve 1-3 of the unemployed, made it harder to help the rest by restoring wage cuts and raising Southern relief wages. That was to avoid the political embarrassment that the Wages and Hours Bill permits no Southern differentials, while WPA has always maintained very large ones. In the states of Oklahoma and Kentucky, where rubber-stamp Senators are in danger, WPA wage increases were largest of all.

Thus it appears that the Administration doesn't conceal that it is using relief money for political slush at the expense of the unemployed. It seems to be boasting about it to make it more effective. If it were clear that this is Administration policy, more unfortunate people would be scared.

I say "appears," "seems" and "if" because our Aubrey ain't any too bright. Maybe he was just babbling. He holds that government should hire all the unemployed at regular industrial wages. But his only suggestion of how government is to get the money is to take it away from the "haves" to give to the "have-nots."

The annual cost of all government is now above 16 billions. That is 282-3 per cent of the President's estimate of 60 billions of national income for this year. But we now collect only about 12 billions in taxes—20 per cent of this year's income.

Studies by the Twentieth Century Fund indicate that the total tax bill of a man with $1000 of income is about 20 per cent—mostly in hidden taxes. I have seen other careful separate studies of the tax element in the price of a set of cheap dining room furniture, a dollar-and-a-half shirt, a loaf of bread and a cheap automobile. Although each was an independent study, the result was remarkably constant—in each case approximately 20 per cent.

By far the bulk of Aubrey's money is coming from the poor. Relief workers and unemployed themselves are paying the 20 per cent of whatever they get—the very same 20 per cent that the total national income is nicked by the total tax bill.

That isn't taking away from the "haves" to give to the "have-nots." It isn't "sharing our wealth." It is simply assessing both "haves" and "have-nots" at an almost equal rate. It is distributing poverty—not wealth. It tends to "make everybody equal"—equally miserable. It is the principal bar to returning prosperity.

Rising debt and taxes should be the principal concern of people of every class. The unemployed must be relieved, but every bit of extravagance in their relief or in any other activity of government, is a curse to the whole community—rich and poor alike, and the poor more bitterly than the rich because the rich can still live well and the poor cannot.

The recent political uses of relief funds discussed in the beginning of this piece is plainly such an extravagance. Apart from its monstrous affront to decency and democracy, it adds to the rising burden of debt and taxes on all classes and deprives tens of thousands of necessary relief because it leaves less to go round. It should be rejected by every voter, whether on relief or not.

Such control for many years. They do not have to destroy for they never produce more than they plan to produce. Those growers seem to think their crop is more than usual apparently 50 per cent greater than the demand. If they try to market them all they will have the expense of picking, crating, transportation and commissions for handling whatever price they get, and they may lose truckloads or carloads after paying all those fixed charges.

After paying the marketing charges they would have probably a cent a melon left if they market their whole crop. Now if by marketing two thirds of the crop they can get an average of one cent more from the consumer that will give the grower two cents for each melon, giving him one third greater return which will probably mean the difference of a profit or a loss in his year's work.

Now what about us consumers? We will have to pay one cent more on the melon, but that one cent will assure us, first, of better selection at the farm, and second, of better condition at the market, for if supply does not exceed demand there will be no damaged melons to work off on the buyer. Such assurance is well worth the extra penny.

This idea of controlled production and distribution can be well illustrated by the orange crop. When I lived in Chicago I always bought "California" oranges when they were in the market, and I was amazed when I came to Santa Ana and found it was surrounded by Valencia growers. I learned that in a time of scarcity the navel was a profitable orange to grow, but in a time of bountiful crops it was a loser because of a short marketing season, while the Valencias could be held on the trees for six months if necessary to get a better market.

Ability-To-Pay-Tax-Theory a Most Dangerous Opiate

A SUGGESTED ALTERNATIVE

In modern civilization, it is seldom possible to determine exactly how much of the fruits of large production should go to each individual participating in the production. If all men were equally interested in the general welfare, the exact distribution would not be of so much importance. But since they are not, as an alternative it might be well to try a graduated tax on the consumption of the comforts of life, instead of a graduated tax on the production of them. Would this not be a practical way for the government to cooperate with and make it possible for men with good-will to contribute their entire ability to the SOCIETY of which they are a member and to penalize those who do otherwise?

Would this not make it impossible for any man with large talents to appropriate large amounts of the comforts of life to his own personal use when the society of which he was a member so badly needed these comforts to strengthen its own unit against other competitive units of society?

NO EXAMPLE CITED

Although the advocates of the Ability-To-Pay Theory have never yet cited one, single, concrete example as evidence that taxing income resulting from production which was to be reinvested could PERMANENTLY add to the general well-being, they continue to repeat thoughtlessly that the theory is good. It is evidently because the advocates can cite examples of TEMPORARY benefit; and because survival of the fittest decrees that every member of society must contribute according to his ability to the national SOCIAL STRUCTURE of which he is a part, if his SOCIAL STRUCTURE is to survive against competing SOCIAL STRUCTURES, that these advocates are confused and overlook or refuse to recognize the fact that they cannot cite one single example of PERMANENT BENEFIT. And an example can easily be cited if this Ability-To-Pay Theory is sound. If not a single example of this specific kind of tax can be cited as beneficial in the long run, then this theory is not sound.

EVERYBODY PAYS

By signing the $3,750,000,000 spending and lending bill Tuesday Mr. Roosevelt formally inaugurated the largest relief program in American history. He made it certain that more money will be spent for relief in 1938 than has been spent in any one year since the administration of direct relief was first begun.

Relief administration on the grand scale began with an expenditure of $350,700,000 in 1933. It reached its peak in 1937 with an expenditure of $2,080,900,000. The bill signed by the President Tuesday makes it certain that $2,572,905,000 will be spent for direct work relief in 1938. Thus the seventh year of relief experimentation will bring about a relief expenditure more than seven times as great as that for the first year of direct relief administration.

If we judge our depression problems by the single test of relief costs, we are forced to admit that the situation is more than seven times as bad as it was when the New Deal acquired the powers of government from the passing and palsied hands of Hooverism.

And in the light of such figures we are forced to wonder just what the President meant when at the time of signing the new spending and lending bill Tuesday he asserted that business is not as bad and has not been as bad as many people have believed. If we judge the situation by the relief costs, the business of the country is more than seven times as bad as it was when the President took office.

There would be no need of justifying the government's spending with such a lavish hand. But relief is being administered in a grossly inefficient and wasteful manner. On June 2 Senator Byrd of Virginia received no challenge and no denial when he asserted in the Senate that the government is now spending $1000 for every person on relief and that the average citizen's income for 1938 is less than $400. But the relief recipient lacks much indeed of receiving that $1000. Too much of it is being consumed to support the most multitudinous and costly bureaucracy that ever existed.

Meanwhile the country is carrying the heaviest tax burden ever imposed upon a self-governing people. Federal taxes collected in 1938 will amount to 11 per cent of the national income and they will not begin to equal the money spent. If all of our taxes for the current year (federal, state, and local) were paid as they are spent, the total would equal 30 per cent of the national income. And they will be paid eventually when taxation takes the place of borrowing. Eventually and inevitably the heaviest taxation in history will succeed the greatest spending orgy in history.

And everybody is paying and will continue to pay. Truer words have not been spoken than the recent words of Mr. Roosevelt: "Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors, because they are a burden on production and can be paid only by production." Only the extremely glib believe that our present tax burden is being borne mainly by the rich.

In 1937 only 43 citizens had incomes of more than $1,000,000 and the total income of the 43 was only $73 million dollars. If the government had taken every penny of the $73 million dollars, the total sum confiscated would have paid the operating expenses of the government only two days.

What is the conclusion of the whole matter and what should be done in the premises. Every citizen should realize that the burdens of taxation are on all citizens. Every citizen should insist that relief money should go to those who are in want and not into the pockets of white collared politicians. It is not relief as such that sensible citizens object to; it is the dissipation of relief billions by a vast array of political parasites—Oklahoma City Oklahomaan.

Salem Capital Journal: "The NLRB has ignored these fundamental requirements of fairness." But even if a degree of fairness enters into future bargaining, the Wagner act, which is so one-sided that it does not declare a single labor practice to be unfair, but is full of "unfair labor practices" on the part of the employer, renders fairness impossible and has resulted in economic demoralization.

Arkansas City Traveler: "It has been said that when a company is hailed before the NLRB it is adjudged guilty before the trial starts. The demand for a degree of fairness in these cases is growing. In addition, the Board has become involved in quarrels between the two great factions of American labor, and its rulings have naturally been unable to please both."
